Strip McCarthy Of Probe Power, Senate Is Urged

Fellow GOPster Accuses Solon Of Contempt

Flanders Of Vermont Levels New Blast At Wisconsin Senator

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) today demanded that the Senate oust Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) as chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee and its parent group unless McCarthy "purge himself of contempt" and answer charges made against him in 1952.

Flanders said in a Senate speech that McCarthy had treated "with contempt" a three-man subcommittee set up in 1952 to investigate charges against McCarthy by former Sen. Benton (D-Conn.), and counter-charges of McCarthy.

The Vermont senator, who criticized McCarthy in two previous Senate speeches, noted that the 1952 subcommittee formally reported that McCarthy rejected its invitation to testify.

In the absence of testimony by McCarthy, the subcommittee rejected it could not finally rule on the charges raised against him. Its report said the situation left unanswered "several questions" as whether McCarthy had used for his own benefit some of the money contributed to his fight against communism and whether McCarthy had improperly accepted a $10,000 fee from a housing firm for a booklet he wrote.

McCarthy, who has previously attributed Flanders' criticism to "senility," said of today's speech:

"I think they should get a man with a net and take him to a good quiet place."

This statement recalled one made to McCarthy earlier this week by Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) after the two had clashed: "You ought to see a psychiatrist."

McCarthy received advance notice of the Flanders attack when the Vermont Republican strode into the McCarthy-Army hearing room where the Wisconsin senator was in the witness chair.

The incident all but obscured the hearings then in progress. McCarthy had been continuing his denials of charges leveled by high Army officials.

Flanders handed McCarthy a note advising him that the speech would be made and inviting the COLUMBUS (AP)—Three men received honorary degrees and diplomas were presented 1,962 seniors today at the 77th June commencement at Ohio State University.

Honorary degrees were awarded Dr. Edwin Sharp Burdell, president of New York City's Cooper Union College for the Advancement of Science and Art; Mason M. Roberts, manager of the Frigidaire Division at Dayton, and Jack A. Morton, electrical engineer for Bell Telephone.

He said he has been told by many that the farm plan, already once voted down by the House Agriculture Committee, is not good politics.

Even though he has not been in politics very long, he said, "I know what is right for America is politically right."

He addressed some 1,000 members and friends of the Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional Committee. When he concluded, his World War II mess sergeant, Marty Snyder, bellowed:

"Who are we going to elect in 1956?"

"Eisenhower!" the crowd roared back. The President grinned.

The President's speech was his first full-scale plug for his legislative program since he announced June 3 that from then on he was going to use every possible opportunity to call for a speedup of congressional action on it. With less than two months to the July 31 adjournment target date, most of the program is far from law.

The company's main buildings were not damaged.

Taken to a Warren hospital in serious condition were Jack Hodkinson, 24; Tom Clark, 30; Lloyd Snyder, 35, all of Niles; Donald McCormick, 22, of Mineral Ridge, and Richard Hopkins, 26, of Leavittsburg.

Four others received minor injuries. They were Edward Blatchford, 56, of Niles; William Lamb, 19, of Mineral Ridge; Philip Harbison, 19, of Girard, and William Murray, 36, of Warren.

Ike Plans Subversive Fight, Pleads For Political Unity

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower pledged last night to "everlastingly" at the job of uprooting subversion and appealed for political unity on his legislative program.

In a nationwide television and radio address, the President turned to the language of the atomic world and urged:

"Let us have less political fissions and more political fusion."

And he called for speedy approval by Congress of a program he described as a "potent package of protection against communism."

Even though he has not been in politics very long, he said, "I know what is right for America is politically right."

Residents of the Circleville, Ashville, Commercial Point, Orient and Williamsport areas were listed to receive diplomas Friday with a graduating class of 1,962 for the Ohio State University Spring Quarter.

Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court was named to deliver the commencement address at ceremonies held in Ohio Stadium.

Fellow GOPster Accuses Solon Of Contempt

McCarthy read his invitation and commented: "I don't have enough interest in any Flanders speech to listen to it."

McCarthy then demanded that Flanders, if he has any information about the McCarthy-Army controversy, "Take the oath, raise your right hand."

And, if he has "nothing except the usual smears from the smear sheets" he should say it before the subcommittee conducting the hearing and not on the Senate floor.

FLANDERS was observing an unwritten Senate rule in this notification to McCarthy.

The custom is that a senator should give notice when he plans a speech about another senator so that the one attacked may be present and reply immediately if he desires.

McCarthy commented that when Flanders made his first Senate speech attacking him he didn't have the courtesy to notify him in advance.

In that speech last week, Flanders described McCarthy as "Dennis the Menace."

Flanders also said that if McCarthy were "in the pay of the Communists he could not have done a better job for them."

In a reply at the hearings, McCarthy called Flanders' speech "vicious and dishonest."

Flanders had asked in his speech whether Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel to the McCarthy subcommittee, has "some hold on the senator?"

He asked:

"Can it be that our Dennis, so effective in making trouble for his elders, has at last gotten into trouble himself? Does the committee plan to investigate the real issues at stake?"

"Dennis the Menace" is a juvenile cartoon character.

MCCARTHY appeared to be in a cold rage as he challenged Flanders to testify under oath if he had any information.

McCarthy made a gesture as if to step aside and let Flanders take his seat, but acting Chairman Mundt (R-SD) intervened.

"We can't have this feuding," Mundt said.

McCarthy snapped that he was not feeding with Flanders.

He declared that he thought Flanders' speech about him last week was "not the result of a viciousness, but because of senility."

Flanders stood to one side of the witness table, gazing stonily at McCarthy until Mundt halted the incident and instructed Flanders to go back among the spectators.

While the dealer with whom he deals voluntarily weeds out and rejects the objectionable type of books before they reach Circleville, the local merchant emphasized how postal regulations serve to hold the "comic book" menace in check.

SECTION 36.2 of the Postal Laws and Regulations prohibits the mailing of "every obscene, lewd, lascivious or filthy book, pamphlet, picture, paper, letter, writing, print or other publication of an indecent character." Violators can be fined up to $5,000 and imprisoned up to five years.

The Circleville merchant added that most of the "comic books" received here, however, are brought in trucks from neighboring cities, and hence are not subject to the postal restrictions. For retailers to insist on mailed delivery of the "comic books" the merchant added, "wouldn't get at the roots of the problem but certainly ought to clean up to some degree the type of books sold here."

similar to one he saw described in a "comic book". An Air Force sergeant in Florida described how the sensational stories featured by the cheap booklets had seriously affected the nerves of his younger sister.

A teacher in Kentucky said she found her pupils, aged seven to nine, reading "a repulsive mixture of crime, horror and sordid sex."

A California housewife told the investigating group of a case in which obscene literature of the "comic book" type was blamed for the fatal shooting of a young girl, slain by a rejected suitor who "had feasted" on the lurid stories.

Letters came from worried parents from doctors, women's clubs, ministers, farm bureau leaders and right-thinking news dealers. In response, Subcommittee Chairman Robert C. Hendrickson indicated his group would continue to study the problem, especially in New York City which he termed "the heart of the comic book industry."

LATE IN MAY, at Fayetteville, N.C., city organized a "Committee for Control of Harmful Comics", under the guidance and supervision of religious, civic and educational organizations.

Leaders of the Fayetteville action called particular attention to the erotic pictures carried in "comic books" under the guise of "love story" illustrations. The committee planned to ask merchants to cooperate by refusing to sell objectionable comics.

Last week in Cleveland, police ordered to arrest merchants who "persist in displaying pornographic and suggestive comic books." Police officers had gathered in 500 comic books from magazine display racks.

Under the Cleveland plan, merchants will first be asked to cooperate. Then, if they fail to do so, a warning will be issued. And finally, if necessary, arrests will be made and prosecution started.

This year's wheat estimate was 67,561,000 bushels more than last month's prediction of about 932,000,000 bushels. It compares with last year's production of 1,168,536,000 bushels and with the 1,088,548,000-bushel average.

The crop report yesterday said that growing conditions were generally favorable in most of the country during May and June.

Soil moisture supplies were said to have been replenished in most areas, including some parts of the Southwest long plagued by drought.

The department also reported that production of milk is running four per cent ahead of last year's record.

Marshallese Scared Of U.S. Bomb Tests

Natives Of Islands Fear They May Lose Their Home Lagoons

MAJURO, Marshall Islands (P)—There was a certain eloquence to the letter. Dwight Heine dropped it in the mailbox here April 22 and sent it winging across the 7,500 miles between these coral islands and the glass and stone headquarters of the United Nations.

The letter was signed by parliamentary representatives of the citizens of the Marshall Islands. It said:

"We feel that we must follow the dictates of our consciences to bring forth this urgent plea to the United Nations. We request that all the experiments with lethal weapons within this area be immediately ceased."

If these experiments are absolutely necessary for the eventual well-being of all the people of the world," then it urged better precautionary measures and adequate compensation for uprooted citizens.

The Marshal Islands, scene of U. S. atomic experiments, are occupied by the United States under a trusteeship from the United Nations. With a population of 11,000, the islands are a group of low-lying atolls. All residents of Bikini and Eniwetok atolls were removed from them several years ago so atomic tests could go forward.

IN THE MARCH 1 test of the hydrogen bomb, 45 persons on Rongelap Atoll suffered radiation burns from falling ash. The 236 residents of Rongelap and Utirik atolls were evacuated on a temporary basis.

The Marshallese are scared. But they are most concerned lest the atomic tests force them to lose their home lagoons.

They put the gist of their fears and hopes into the petition they sent to the United Nations in April; it is to come before the petitions committee of the U. N. Trusteeship Council late in June.

"We spent a month working on it," said Heine, spokesman for the committee that originated it.

Heine is superintendent of the Marshall Island schools. He and Atlan Anien, a teacher, were chief draftsmen of the petition.

At the U. N., Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. has voiced the assurance that American authorities "are doing everything possible to prevent any recurrence of possible danger."

But even that cannot restore the residents of Rongelap to their native soil for at least a year—until it is considered safe. The people of Bikini and Eniwetok may never see their atolls again, and Heine says the Bikinians have not been compensated for loss of their lagoon. How much was it worth? Mrs. Dorothy Kubau, queen of the Majuro Atoll, replied:

"Hard to estimate. Islands grow coconuts, breadfruit. The sea has fish. The island home for birds. Lagoon gives many, many years life."

"Land means a great deal to the Marshallese," says the petition to the U. N. "It means more than just a place where you can plant your food crops and build your houses; or a place where you can bury your dead. It is the very life of the people. Take away their land and their spirits go also."

Fedora Bontempi, who teaches thousands of women to understand the art of good cooking via TV and radio, is a petite blonde who looks as if she would be baffled by the problem of boiling an egg.

Fedora and her singer husband, Pino, co-star in one radio and three television programs weekly, with a new TV show in the offing. Fedora cooks and Pino sings, and between them they manage to convey a sense of good living.

Fedora talks of cooking with affection: "Caress your food as you cook, give it the benefit of imagination and interest, and it will turn out loving you."

She has been cooking ever since she can remember. Though her mother sometimes chased her out of the kitchen, she managed to acquire the fine Italian touch with pasta and sauces by the time she could read. Immediately after graduation from New York's Hunter College she went to Europe to RALEIGH, N. C. (P)—Unidentified persons apparently want tourists to go through the town of Rockingham. They manage this by erecting signs similar to official signs at the intersection of a tourist route and a road leading to Rockingham.

The signs herald the route as a shortcut back to U. S. 1—but it just isn't so.

The result: tourists wander all over.

The signs, which highway forces remove only to reappear, are placed just off the right-of-way.

The State Highway Commission chairman says the commission can't do a thing about it. The signs aren't on state property.

Fedora decided they might as well pool their talents, and wrote a script involving the daily adventures, culinary and romantic, of an Italian singer and his wife. The Bontemps were an instant success.

Fedora still writes all the scripts for both radio and television shows.

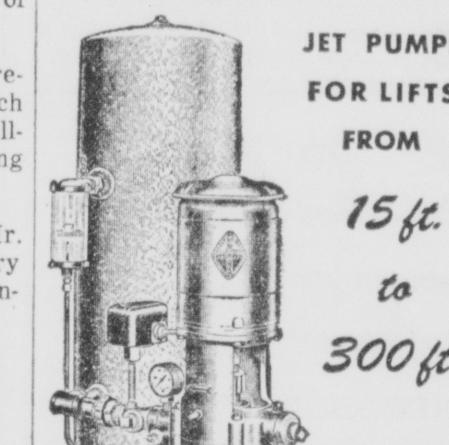

She and Pino produce a weekly radio program, have two weekly television shows originating in New Haven, Conn., and a show from New York, playing up Italian cooking.

Their projected new program will deal with American cooking.

Writing all the scripts, acting in all the shows, co-producing and cooking up new recipes keeps Fedora fairly busy, but she's a glutton for punishment.

"After cooking all day on TV, I start right in again when I come home," she says. "Pino still likes my cooking."

WASHINGTON (AP) — This country's troubles begin again with Syngman Rhee, South Korean President, if the Geneva conference fails to produce a peaceful settlement. It seems sure to fail.

The diplomats, Western and Communist, have talked six weeks at Geneva about Korea and Indochina. No positive results. The conference can't last much longer.

Ever since the armistice last summer, Rhee has opposed the division of his country into North and South Korea. Repeatedly he has threatened to wreck the truce if the diplomats can't agree on a way to unite Korea.

He now has 20 divisions, 650,000 troops, trained and equipped by the United States. In addition, the United States and the United Nations have about 250,000 of their troops in South Korea.

Across the armistice line—a no man's land 4,000 yards wide—are a million Communist troops: 350,000 North Korean, 650,000 Chinese. The North Koreans hold most of the front-line positions. The Chinese are behind them.

They have fortifications, bunkers and caves, for 20 miles behind the front. It is the opinion of American military leaders that Rhee could not crack that defense.

If his troops ran into disaster, only U. S. and U. N. intervention could bail them out. And that would mean full-scale resumption of the Korean War.

When the Geneva conference breaks up, assuming it's a failure, and Rhee starts talking of attack again, U. S. officials will have to try to keep him talking instead of acting.

There have been no clashes in the no man's land, which stretches across Korea for 150 miles. Each side has an armed patrol of about 1,000 men who roam their side of the demilitarized zone.

But Rhee could start the war again by pointing one big gun northward and pulling the trigger.

The United States has let the armistice commission go freely through the South Korean ports of entry to see that the U. N. forces don't add to their military strength during the truce.

But the Communists don't let the commission have the same freedom in their area. They have rebuilt their airfields but whether they have planes to put on their fields, in case the war begins again, is not publicly known.

The American armed forces have helped the rehabilitation of South Korea with supplies and supervision of the rebuilding. The rebuilding itself is done by the South Koreans.

The relationship between Rhee's army and U. S. military leaders is better than the latter had hoped for. Nevertheless, Rhee's officers would probably obey his orders to attack.

Because of its poor economy, South Korea could not sustain its army without U. S. help. The Americans have driven home to the Korean officers that their future depends on U. S. support.

Since 65 per cent of the South Korean officers have had no more than three years' experience, their 20 divisions lack the long-trained leadership necessary if they were in a big war on their own.

Area In Which Rommel Trained Maneuver Ground For 'Big Red'

By HAL BOYLE
GRAFENWOEHR, Germany (AP)

—From the deserts of Tunisia to the beaches of Normandy, Field Marshal Rommel's battle plans were upset by "The Big Red"—the U. S. 1st Infantry Division.

It balked his breakout blow at Kasserine Gap, then helped crush and capture his famed Afrika Korps. It was in the forefront of the forces that ten years ago landed and breached his western wall defenses.

If the ghost of the brilliant "Desert Fox" could come back this way once more, he would find reason for a dry smile over the antics time plays with the dreams of corporals and field marshals.

For here on the great sprawling German military reservation where Rommel himself once trained his feared Panzer legions, his old foe, "The Big Red," is practicing the new arts of war.

On rolling Bavarian hills only 15 miles from the Czech border, the U. S. 1st Infantry Division is going through intensive maneuvers over the same ground they would have to defend if the Communists ever unleash their forces.

This week a battalion of the 16th Infantry Regiment, partly manned by some of the veterans who stormed across Omaha Beach, took two hills in a test attack—hills Rommel must have known almost as well as the face he shaved.

It would have been nice to have had Rommel's opinion of the operation—a skillfully coordinated attack employing every element from doughboy to jet aircraft.

But it more than impressed a group of 42 former war correspondents here for a tour of old battle scenes. It was so realistic that at one point, when a quadraped mount of 50 caliber machineguns began clipping tree branches on the road a few yards before them, several began moving nervously toward the nearest ditches.

The only foulup in the maneuver was a recent clash in the field of air support. Eight swift Sabrejets swooped down to knock out a strong point with napalm and 200 pound bombs.

They hit the target exactly, but about half the bombs were duds and none of the napalm containers flamed after hitting the ground. Some of the ground soldiers, knowing the nearest Czech jet airbase is only about three minutes flying time away, snickered aloud.

The air liaison officer looked unhappy. A naval admiral standing by looked cheerful.

"Who would you really rather have supporting you—the Air Force or the Navy?" a correspondent asked an infantry colonel who was explaining the operation.

"Well, I guess we really would prefer the U. S. Marines," said the colonel, grinning.

Commenting on the superior firepower of the modern Army over any of the past, Brig. Gen. John E'more, acting commander of the division, emphasized the penetrating power of the new Belgian-made Energa rifle grenade.

"It will go through 11 inches of armor at more than 100 yards," he said. "That means a doughboy in his foxhole can knock out any tank now known to be in existence."

Gen. Elmore said his biggest problem is the turnover of trained men. His division of approximately 17,000 men had to train more than 11,300 new men in 1953, will have the same problem with 8,000 more this year.

"But the spirit of the division—and spirit is as strong as any human force we know—is as high as ever, because these men have confidence in each other. The men think they are ready for anything."

Truthful Son, 4, Gets Dad Arrested

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP)—Leonard Barber has instructed his son Ronald to tell the truth at all times—even if it hurts. Yesterday the son did.

A state conservation officer heard a shot in a deer area near Muskegon. Investigating, he came upon Ronald and asked the 4-year-old if he knew who fired the shot.

"Daddy saw a deer and shot it," the youngster replied. His father is serving 10 days in jail and must pay a $50 fine for shooting deer out of season.

CHICAGO (AP)—Will Rossiter, 87, dean of American music publishers and best known as the composer of "I Love to Live in Loveland," died last night after a short illness.

Rossiter, known to thousands as "Uncle Will," began his publishing career after composing his first song, "Sweet Nellie Bawn," in 1890. Among the more famous songs he published were "Some of These Days," "Darktown Strutters' Ball" and "Turkey in the Straw." He used the pseudonym W. R. Williams in his own song writing.

He was born in Wells, Somerset, England, and came to the United States at the age of 14.

Salt Ruins Navy Radar Condensers

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—One thousand capacitors or condensers, manufactured for Navy radar equipment, were ruined by a saboteur yesterday with an ordinary salt shaker.

Hopkins Engineering Co. plant officials said they believe a disgruntled employee did the $500 damage.

Salt was sprinkled on two carloads of capacitors at the plant. A salt shaker was found nearby.

The condensers are so sensitive that salt alters the electric capacity of the paper that separates layers of aluminum foil in them. Signs warn against bringing salt into the building.

WASHINGTON — This country's troubles begin again with Syngman Rhee, South Korean President, if the Geneva conference fails to produce a peaceful settlement. It seems sure to fail.

The diplomats, Western and Communist, have talked six weeks at Geneva about Korea and Indochina. No positive results. The conference can't last much longer.

Ever since the armistice last summer, Rhee has opposed the division of his country into North and South Korea. Repeatedly he has threatened to wreck the truce if the diplomats can't agree on a way to unite Korea.

He now has 20 divisions, 650,000 troops, trained and equipped by the United States. In addition, the United States and the United Nations have about 250,000 of their troops in South Korea.

Across the armistice line, no man's land 4,000 yards wide—are a million Communist troops: 350,000 North Korean, 650,000 Chinese. The North Koreans hold most of the front-line positions. The Chinese are behind them.

They have fortifications, bunkers and caves, for 20 miles behind the front. It is the opinion of American military leaders that Rhee could not crack that defense.

If his troops ran into disaster, only U. S. and U. N. intervention could bail them out. And that would mean full-scale resumption of the Korean War.

When the Geneva conference breaks up, assuming it's a failure, and Rhee starts talking of attack again, U. S. officials will have to try to keep him talking instead of acting.

There have been no clashes in the no man's land, which stretches across Korea for 150 miles. Each side has an armed patrol of about 1,000 men who roam their side of the demilitarized zone.

ing of the sins of which the Israelites were guilty.

The Lord God hath sworn by His holiness, that, lo, the days shall come upon you, that He will take you away with hooks, and your posterity with fishhooks." This refers to fish that are caught by hooks and must mean that these sinners were to be taken away into captivity in the most humiliating manner.

"And I raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for Nazarites. But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drink; and commanded the prophets, saying, prophesy not."

The Nazarite vow called for abstinence from wine made by fermentation, and was a sacred vow to God, but these young men were given wine to drink, and the prophets whom Jehovah had chosen were told not to prophesy. They did so nevertheless, but at their peril.

"Woe to them that are at ease in Zion, and trust in the mountain of Samaria, which are named chief of the house of Israel." These were the notable men of the nation who seemed perfectly indifferent to the sins of their

The garments were the outer garments that Orientals use not only during the day, but also during the night. Indeed, the poor have almost no other bedding. It was, therefore, but humane that, as the earliest code known to the Hebrews provided, whenever a poor man had been obliged to pawn his cloak it should always be returned to him at night.

Amos accuses the users in Israel with disregarding this humane provision, even of spreading the garments of the poor on their couches at religious feasts. Thus were the poor shamelessly disregarded in the name of religion.

Wine was an essential of some religious feasts, and the wine was purchased by fines—sometimes by fines unjustly imposed. Amos calls these drinkers of the wine, "King of Bashan, that are in the mountain of Samaria, which oppress the poor, which crush the needy, which say to their masters, Bring, and let us drink."

Amos Denounces Intemperance

HE WARNS ISRAEL THAT ITS SINS WILL BRING GOD'S JUDGMENT

Scripture — Amos 2:6-12; 4:1-2; 6.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

INTEMPERANCE, which is such a terrible problem today,

was also rampant in the kingdom of Israel, when Amos was Jehovah's prophet, 2,700 years ago.

What can be done to combat the excessive drinking of men, women, even teen-agers?

Other so-called "social sins" for which Amos chided his people, are also with us of the modern world.

The very poor still live in slum areas, often charged exorbitant rents for houses by greedy landlords. However, in our country even the "lower income groups" have more of this world's goods, generally speaking, than in any other land, but the poor we still have with us.

In the second chapter of Amos, the prophet sets forth some of the sins that will bring down punishment from Jehovah on His people. "Because they sold the righteous for silver, and the poor for a pair of shoes. And they laid themselves down upon clothes laid to pledge by every altar, and they drink the wine of the condemned in the house of their God."

A poor man might sell himself, but if he did his master must not treat him like a slave but as a hired servant, according to the law. The shoes spoken of were sandals, consisting of a leather sole fastened to the foot by straps.

The garments were the outer garments that Orientals use not only during the day, but also during the night. Indeed, the poor have almost no other bedding. It was, therefore, but humane that as the earliest code known to the Hebrews provided, whenever a poor man had been obliged to pawn his cloak it should always be returned to him at night.

Amos accuses the usurers in Israel with disregarding this humane practice, even of spreading the garments of the poor on their couches at religious feasts. Thus were the poor shamelessly disregarded in the name of religion.

Wine was an essential of some religious feasts, and the wine was purchased by fines—sometimes by fines unjustly imposed. Amos calls these drinkers of the wine, "Kings of Bashan, that are in the mountain of Samaria, which oppress the poor, which crush the needy, which say to their masters, Bring, and let us drink."

I have quoted from the commentary to the lesson which is taken from the writing of H. G. Mitchell, to better the understanding.

The older ones may well discuss today's growing juvenile delinquency and also the tendency to drinking among their own sets, people or to their responsibilities toward them.

"Ye that put far away the evil day, and cause the seat of violence to come near; That lie upon beds of ivory, and stretch themselves upon their couches, and eat the lambs out of the flock, and the calves out of the midst of the stall;

"That chant to the sound of the viol, and invent to themselves instruments of music, like David; that drink wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the chief ointments: but they are not grieved for the affliction of Joseph.

"Therefore now shall they go captive, and the banquet of them that stretched themselves shall be removed."

Thus Amos chided and warned his people of what was to come, but they heeded him not, and eventually his prophecies came true.

The younger children may be asked about their school activities or things that happen in the playgrounds, such as cheating at lessons, being unkind to playmates; not sharing fairly the play equipment provided for all to enjoy.

munity to the lesson which is taken from the writing of H. G. Mitchell, to better the understand-

A KNOTTY PROBLEM

SOME IMAGINATIVE folk held a symposium on space travel in New York City the other day and advocated a special tax to provide funds for a satellite which would circle the earth a few hundred miles high and seek to solve the problem of how to conquer space. Then sights would be set for Mars.

Some of the more optimistic thought this ultimate goal might be reached within this generation.

Secretary Stevens — I personally think that anything in that line would prove to be much exaggerated. That would be my opinion. In other words I think there has been some talk around that has been very much exaggerated over anything that is there. I am the Secretary and I have had some talks with the Committee and the chairman and so on.

"And by and large as far as the treatment of me is concerned I have no personal complaint. In other words, when he got after Zwicker, of course, then I hollered, but as far as I personally am concerned, I don't have a lot of stuff so far as my contact with Joe or the committee is concerned."

On March 10, the chronological table of events was sent to Senator Potter. It had already been seen by some Democratic Senators and by some favored newspapermen. This chronological statement gives the impression that great pressure was put upon the Secretary of the Army and his counsel, John Adams, by Roy Cohn to gain an advantage for David Schine.

And all those events occurred prior to March 8. Therefore if, in Mr. Stevens' opinion, they were exaggerated and really amounted to little by March 8, how could they be expanded to such tremendous importance as to require these hearings? The real issue then was neither Cohn nor Schine nor Stevens nor Adams, but how to kill off Joe McCarthy speedily and effectively.

In view of the Symington-Stevens monitored telephone calls, the assumption must be that McCarthy had to be got and would be in a short hearing.

Only those who know nothing about Congressional committees and their procedure could have believed that. The slow procedure of selecting a counsel was perhaps not anticipated. First came Mr. Samuel Sears, of Boston, who was accepted and then rejected. Then came Mr. Ray Jenkins, of Knoxville, who had to familiarize with the problem. Then came Mr. Joseph Welch, of Boston.

The ten minute cross-examination rule adopted by the Committee proves that nothing could be done quickly at a Senatorial hearing. It means that after Mr. Jenkins is through with a witness, it is possible for a round to take 100 minutes. Nor are the interrogators limited to this 100 minutes; they can go round and round to their heart's content. Then there are points of order and points of personal privilege which can last interminably.

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

It is very difficult to understand the role of Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens. As late as March 8, he told Senator Symington on the telephone that the Schine matter was exaggerated. These are the words quoted in the monitored telephone calls:

"Senator Symington—I don't want to push you on it but we have got a problem. This whole staff picture is a problem for everybody."

"Secretary Stevens — I personally think that anything in that line would prove to be much exaggerated. That would be my opinion. In other words I think there has been some talk around that has been very much exaggerated over anything that is there. I am the Secretary and I have had some talks with the Committee and the chairman and so on."

One week ago, a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee agreed with the House in clipping $33 million in outright subsidies from two great international carriers — Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines. The House Appropriations Committee had reduced the grant by $50 million, but $17 million restored through a floor amendment backed by the lobby. There will also be a Senate move to cut out this $17 million with a total saving of $50 million.

Heart Attacks May Be Caused by Accidents

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PHYSICAL injury, as from an accident, can act as an aggravating factor in causing coronary heart disease.

In this disease, a clot forms in the coronary arteries, the arteries that supply the heart. Insufficient blood reaches the heart muscle, causing a severe heart attack.

A very common cause is a steering-wheel type of automobile accident.

Compression of Chest Wall

This occurs when the person suffers injury to his chest in which he has a compression of his chest wall from sudden contact with the steering wheel of a car.

It is important to know that an accident can not only cause physical damage to one's body, but may even put stress on his heart, causing a heart attack.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. A.M.R. What causes low blood pressure?

Answer: There are many causes for this disorder, such as anemia, nervous disorders and liver or pancreas diseases. In most instances, however, no cause can be found and most persons can lead a normal life even though they do have a low blood pressure.

At one time, it was believed that a heart attack following an injury was just a casual occurrence, not related to the injury.

The symptoms following a heart attack after injury are usually severe chest pain of a squeezing nature, a drop in blood pressure and an ashen coloring to the skin. The patient may appear as if in shock.

Extreme physical strain to which the person is unaccustomed may also be at fault. Severe emotional strain can be blamed, too.

Establishing Damage

In order to prove definitely whether or not heart damage is present, it is usually thought wise to take an electrocardiogram, an electrical tracing of the heart beat.

Extreme physical strain to which the person is unaccustomed may also be at fault. Severe emotional strain can be blamed, too.

A KNOTTY PROBLEM

SOME IMAGINATIVE folk held a symposium on space travel in New York City the other day and advocated a special tax to provide funds for a satellite which would circle the earth a few hundred miles high and seek to solve the problem of how to conquer space. Then sights would be set for Mars.

Some of the more optimistic thought this ultimate goal might be reached within this generation.

From this point the discussion naturally flowed to the problem of how earthlings would communicate with the people of Mars when that planet was reached. One scientist suggested the sign language. Others feared the Martians might not understand it.

A naturalist who has studied bees pointed out that bees communicate with one another by a peculiar wiggle-dance on flowers. Frequency of the wiggles indicates the core. The suggestion, it was agreed, might be helpful if Martians were found to be of the insect type rather than homo sapiens.

And who will do the wiggling, if that is necessary to make talk with Martians? The Hula girls of Hawaii and other tropical paradises are reputed to have some skill in that line. But that might cause unforeseen complications.

ON THE MOVE

RESTLESS AMERICANS will be on the move as never before this summer. Vacation expenditures of record proportions are in the offing, both at home and abroad.

In the U. S. it is predicted that 66 million human beings will climb into 22 million automobiles for the country's favorite recreational gambit—touring. Estimate is that motoring tourists alone will spend $9.25 billion this year traversing new routes and seeing the sights.

Expenditures of Americans abroad of $1.4 billion are forecast, an increase of six per cent over the 1953 figure. Tourists are big business overseas, and as usual Britain, France and other Western European countries are making a heavy play for U. S. dollars.

Transportation tax reduction and trans-Atlantic airlines' new innovation of selling tickets on installments will make trips to Europe more attractive this year. Americans will also head in greater numbers toward Mexico and Canada.

Go where they will, American vacationists will be sure of finding other Americans.

More than 80 different makes of automobiles were produced in Cleveland in the early days of the industry. About 50 per cent of them are now being used in Pickaway County.

These Days

It is very difficult to understand the role of Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens. As late as March 8, he told Senator Symington on the telephone that the Schine matter was exaggerated. These are the words quoted in the monitored telephone calls:

"Senator Symington—I don't want to push you on it but we have got a problem. This whole staff picture is a problem for everybody."

"Secretary Stevens—I personally think that anything in that line would prove to be much exaggerated. That would be my opinion. In other words I think there has been some talk around that has been very much exaggerated over anything that is there. I am the Secretary and I have had some talks with the Committee and the chairman and so on."

"And by and large as far as the treatment of me is concerned I have no personal complaint. In other words, when he got after Zwicker, of course, then I hollered, but as far as I personally am concerned, I don't have a lot of stuff so far as my contact with Joe or the committee is concerned."

On March 10, the chronological table of events was sent to Senator Potter. It had already been seen by some Democratic Senators and by some favored newspapermen. This chronological statement gives the impression that great pressure was put upon the Secretary of the Army and his counsel, John Adams, by Roy Cohn to gain an advantage for David Schine.

And all those events occurred prior to March 8. Therefore if, in Mr. Stevens' opinion, they were exaggerated and really amounted to little by March 8, how could they be expanded to such tremendous importance as to require these hearings? The real issue then was neither Cohn nor Schine nor Stevens nor Adams, but how to kill off Joe McCarthy speedily and effectively.

In view of the Symington-Stevens monitored telephone calls, the assumption must be that McCarthy had to be got and would be in a short hearing.

Only those who know nothing about Congressional committees and their procedure could have believed that. The slow procedure of selecting a counsel was perhaps not anticipated. First came Mr. Samuel Sears, of Boston, who was accepted and then rejected. Then came Mr. Ray Jenkins, of Knoxville, who had to familiarize with the problem. Then came Mr. Joseph Welch, of Boston.

The ten minute cross-examination rule adopted by the Committee proves that nothing could be done quickly at a Senatorial hearing. It means that after Mr. Jenkins is through with a witness, it is possible for a round to take 100 minutes. Nor are the interrogators limited to this 100 minutes; they can go round and round to their heart's content. Then there are points of order and points of personal privilege which can last interminably.

Largest medical library in the United States is the Army medical library in Washington. It seems fair to assume that there's a paragraph or two devoted to that delightful pill—atabrine.

Approximately 58 per cent of Americans drink wine, beer or liquor. Before or after driving?

Perhaps there wouldn't be so much nonsense in the world if there were less demand for it.

Speaking of which, here's a paragraph or two devoted to that delightful pill—atabrine.

NATIONAL WHIRLINGIG news behind the news

WASHINGTON—The American Congress must soon determine whether the expanding commercial aviation industry shall become a self-supporting operation or continue to be financed by flying and non-flying passengers. And powerful lobbies are fighting President Eisenhower's demand for economy in this field, which has drawn $1 billion from Uncle Sam's till since World War II and still receives $140 million annually.

One week ago, a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee agreed with the House in clipping $33 million in outright subsidies from two great international carriers—Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines. The House Appropriations Committee had reduced the grant by $50 million, but $17 million restored through a floor amendment backed by the lobby.

Pan Am has politically influential figures in Kilgore's state. It pays an annual $18,000 retainer to the law firm headed by Louis A. Johnson, former secretary of defense. Former Rep. Jennings Randolph is an officer in a feeder line, which fears it may be hurt by the proposed cut. Both are regular West Virginia Democrats.

Democratic politicians, including former cabinet members and congressmen, to block the economy move. He seeks to persuade the full appropriations committee or the Senate itself to retain the $17 million and restore the $33 million. It is thus a $50 million enterprise.

They have brought heaviest pressure against Sen. Harley M. Kilgore of West Virginia. With Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Kilgore has been the chief advocate of economy and reform in commercial aviation. With more efficient management and fewer luxuries, he contends that the international carriers can exist without $140 million a year in subsidies and mail pay.

Monrovia Garden Club Has Flower Demonstration Meet

Mrs. Snyder Is Elected President

Monrovia Garden club held election of officers during a regular June meeting held in the newly-painted basement of Five Points Methodist church.

The new decorations formed a background for the many floral arrangements of the members, the theme of the workshop of the meeting.

Mrs. Clyde Michel, a member of a nominating committee, presented a slate of officers, who were elected as follows: Mrs. William Snyder, president; Mrs. Lloyd Neff, first vice president; Mrs. Harry Dick, second vice president; Mrs. Eugenia Smith, secretary and Mrs. Raymond Grubl, treasurer.

Mrs. Francis Furniss conducted a business session, with 18 members answering roll call by naming their favorite rose. June 18 was chosen as the date for a tour of the Mentor Gardens. The group will leave by bus from Monroe Township school. Anyone wishing to participate in the tour may contact Mrs. Furniss or Mrs. Eugene Smith.

Mrs. Michel, Mrs. Harry Smith and Mrs. Charles Flemming were appointed as delegates to a state convention to be held in Columbus. Mrs. Adrian Liston announced that the club flower show, which was scheduled for July, has been postponed until a later date.

Following the business session, Mrs. Liston offered a brief discussion of flower containers. She listed the various types of containers and emphasized the fact that the container must suit the arrangement.

Mrs. Pauline Adkins continued the workshop with a demonstration of the different types of arrangements suitable for exhibiting. She showed the mechanics of arranging, gave hints on keeping the flowers fresh and demonstrated her discussion of usual and unusual materials suitable for arrangements.

The club members, using their own flowers, made arrangements under the advice of Mrs. Adkins. Refreshments were served at the close of the workshop. Hostesses were Mrs. Charles Hosler, Mrs. Lloyd Neff and Mrs. William Neff.

It can take only a few minutes in the summer sun to make you look—and feel—like a boiled lobster.

When you're suffering through the blisters, it will be little consolation to know that you have lots of company. Every summer a high percentage of bathers ignores all the advice of the American Safety Council, the U. S. Public Health Service and other sources.

As a result, more than eight million days will be lost through sunburn absenteeism and the same number of days will be spent in misery by broiled humans. Here are some suggestions by sun authorities for a safe and pretty tan:

1. There is no exact time limit for safe sunning because skin types differ in their sensitivity to ultraviolet. As a rule, however, fair skins are quicker to burn than olive skins, but the individual is the final judge of his own skin tolerance. Some will find their maximum exposure is 15 minutes. Others may tolerate as much as 50 minutes.

2. A good effective sun lotion can help double the time you may safely stay in the sun. Screening ingredients used in these lotions protect against ultraviolet rays without impeding those that stimulate the tanning process.

3. Even with a suntan lotion you can't hope to acquire a tan the first day. Prolonged exposure to sunlight may result in a painful and serious burn or a tan that will peel away quickly.

4. You can take less sun at the beach where reflection by sand and water doubles the intensity of ultraviolet than you can take near grass or trees. You'll need to wear lotion on cloudy or hazy days, too.

5. Oiliness has nothing to do with the effectiveness of a sun preparation, so be wary of picking up just any oil from pantry or medicine chest to use as a sun screen.

6. Be sure to coat yourself with sun lotion after each swim and whenever your skin begins to feel dry. Sun allergy creams are available, which are said to block out all sun rays and if applied to sensitive areas such as nose, lips, shoulders, back of the knees will help insure safe sunning.

Monrovia Garden Club Has Flower Demonstration Meet

Mrs. Snyder Is Elected President

Monrovia Garden club held election of officers during a regular June meeting held in the newly-painted basement of Five Points Methodist church.

The new decorations formed a background for the many floral arrangements of the members, the theme of the workshop of the meeting.

Mrs. Clyde Michel, a member of a nominating committee, presented a slate of officers, who were elected as follows: Mrs. William Snyder, president; Mrs. Lloyd Neff, first vice president; Mrs. Harry Dick, second vice president; Mrs. Eugene Smith, secretary and Mrs. Raymond Grubl, treasurer.

Mrs. Francis Furniss conducted a business session, with 18 members answering roll call by naming their favorite rose. June 18 was chosen as the date for a tour of the Mentor Gardens. The group will leave by bus from Monroe Township school. Anyone wishing to participate in the tour may contact Mrs. Furniss or Mrs. Eugene Smith.

Mrs. Michel, Mrs. Harry Smith and Mrs. Charles Flemming were appointed as delegates to a state convention to be held in Columbus. Mrs. Adrian Liston announced that the club flower show, which was scheduled for July, has been postponed until a later date.

Following the business session, Mrs. Liston offered a brief discussion of flower containers. She listed the various types of containers and emphasized the fact that the container must suit the arrangement.

Mrs. Pauline Adkins continued the workshop with a demonstration of the different types of arrangements suitable for exhibiting. She showed the mechanics of arranging, gave hints on keeping the flowers fresh and demonstrated her discussion of usual and unusual materials suitable for arrangements.

The club members, using their own flowers, made arrangements under the advice of Mrs. Adkins. Refreshments were served at the close of the workshop. Hostesses were Mrs. Charles Hosler, Mrs. Lloyd Neff and Mrs. William Neff.

NATION'S WAR ON INSECTS HAS RAGED FOR A CENTURY

By HARRY WARNER, JR.

Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The nation's oldest war began one hundred years ago this summer—and new atomic and biological warfare weapons are helping to score new victories for the United States.

The battles have been fought without a single day of truce during the century, against enemies that spread disease, destroy food, ruin books, sabotage houses, and even steal blood from the human body. The enemy consists of insects.

Men have been slapping mosquitoes and shooting away flies ever since civilization began. However, it wasn't until 1854 that the man versus insect warfare became official. On June 14 of that year, the United States federal government appointed its first entomologist, Dr. Townsend Glover.

A bit earlier, on May 4 of that year, New York state had made the first professional appointment of an entomologist in the nation, in the person of Dr. Asa Fitch.

"THERE IS NO kind of mischief going on in the world of nature around us, but what some insect is at the bottom of it." That's the way Dr. Fitch summed up a situation which today's entomologists find unchanged.

The other pioneer, Dr. Glover, made a statement which is also reflected in the quarantines maintained against insects: "One pair of new noxious insects will do more harm than hundreds of well-known varieties."

Entomologists all over the nation will combine their efforts this summer, in an effort to bring the insect problem to public attention through observance of the War on Bugs.

Entomologists believe today that it's important for the public to understand and back their efforts, because new victories against insects would be one way in which the nation could support its growing population.

UNITED STATES population is increasing by more than 7,000 persons daily, which means that the total will increase by more than 30 million within the next 20 years.

The Department of Agriculture points out most of the nation's land usable for farming is already in production. The future new millions must be fed and clothed, by increasing production on the land, and insect control is one of

Hydroelectric Power Given Major Boosts

2 Recent Developments Seen Helping Southeast And Far West Areas

NEW YORK — Cheap hydroelectric power, which has helped bolster the economy of sections of the Southeast and Far West, will become available in large amounts in the Northeast in a few years.

This became apparent in the wake of two developments in Washington this week.

The U.S. Supreme Court Monday cleared the way for the St. Lawrence River power project, which will be developed as a joint operation by the State of New York and Canada's Province of Ontario. The project will be an integral part of the Seaway plan for permitting ocean-going ships to enter the Great Lakes.

The following day the Senate Public Works Committee voted to let the Federal Power Commission decide whether the State of New York or a group of private utilities should develop a huge hydroelectric project at Niagara Falls, 200 miles southwest of the St. Lawrence construction.

Upon completion, the two power programs will have the effect of an economic shot in the arm for the Northeast United States by reducing the differential between the cost of electricity in the region and other parts of the country.

Work on the 600-million dollar

the best ways to increase that production.

The Agriculture department has adopted fantastic new methods in its experiments designed to conquer man's oldest enemies. Its researchers are experimenting with chemicals that plants can absorb without harm, but kill some insects which feed on plants.

Similar toxic chemicals may someday be used to inoculate cattle, to kill blood-sucking insects. The wonders of atomic science are serving for direct and indirect extremes.

Direct methods have included birth control of insects by gamma radiations. Male screw-worm flies have been sterilized with these radiations. When released, they caused females to lay sterile eggs.

INDIRECTLY, radioactive phosphorus has been used to tag insects, to permit checks on how fast and far insects can crawl or fly during migration.

Oddly enough, the common house fly which never found any defense against the swatter, has succeeded in striking back against a more scientific weapon, DDT. Ten years ago, DDT was expected to wipe out the nation's fly population. It didn't. Flies which survive today either had a natural resistance to this chemical, or developed such a resistance through body changes.

The Agriculture department estimates that enough bread to supply the nation for nearly two months of each year never gets baked, because of wheat that's destroyed by bugs in storage.

However, you can realize why entomologists are proud of their profession when you realize how the mosquito has been disarmed. The yellow fever it carried killed 15,000 persons in the Mississippi valley in 1873. Yellow fever hasn't been reported in the United States since 1905.

The Department of Agriculture points out most of the nation's land usable for farming is already in production. The future new millions must be fed and clothed, by increasing production on the land, and insect control is one of

St. Lawrence power project will get under way early this summer. Engineers estimate that within four or five years, the St. Lawrence will be harnessed to produce 12 billion kilowatt-hours of hydro power annually, more than the output of either the Hoover or Grand Coulee dams. The energy will be divided equally between the Hydroelectric Power Commission of Ontario and the New York Power Authority.

ST. LOUIS — South St. Louis was rocked Thursday by a terrific explosion in a pharmaceutical company which was followed by fire spreading to a nearby laundry. Eighteen persons were rushed to hospitals and more were being taken there by ambulances.

One body was known to be in the ruins of the Wilson Keith & Co., the pharmaceutical firm which crumbled in a mass of rubble under the impact.

A person living in the area said that it was possible as many as 40 employees had been trapped in the building. No estimate of the dead or injured could be made immediately.

NATION'S WAR ON INSECTS Hydroelectric Power Given Major Boosts

By HARRY WARNER, JR.

Central Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON — The nation's oldest war began one hundred years ago this summer—and new atomic and biological warfare weapons are helping to score new victories for the United States.

The battles have been fought without a single day of truce during the century, against enemies that spread disease, destroy food, ruin books, sabotage houses, and even steal blood from the human body. The enemy consists of insects.

Men have been slapping mosquitoes and shooting away flies ever since civilization began. However, it wasn't until 1854 that the man versus insect warfare became official. On June 14 of that year, the United States federal government appointed its first entomologist, Townsend Glover.

A bit earlier, on May 4 that year, New York state had made the first professional appointment of an entomologist in the nation, in the person of Dr. Asa Fitch.

"THERE IS NO kind of mischief going on in the world of nature around us, but what some insect is at the bottom of it." That's the way Dr. Fitch summed up a situation which today's entomologists find unchanged.

The other pioneer, Dr. Glover, made a statement which is also reflected in the quarantines maintained against insects: "One pair of new noxious insects will do more harm than hundreds of well-known varieties."

Entomologists all over the nation will combine their efforts this summer, in an effort to bring the insect problem to public attention through observance of the War on Bugs.

Entomologists believe today that it's important for the public to understand and back their efforts, because new victories against insects would be one way in which the nation could support its growing population.

UNITED STATES population is increasing by more than 7,000 persons daily, which means that the total will increase by more than 30 million within the next 20 years.

The Department of Agriculture points out most of the nation's land usable for farming is already in production. The future new millions must be fed and clothed, by increasing production on the land, and insect control is one of the best ways to increase that production.

Dr. Castillo Graham, University of Maryland entomologist, counts number of insects caught in a bug trap at university's fruit laboratory at Hancock, Md.

The Agriculture department has adopted fantastic new methods in its experiments designed to conquer man's oldest enemies. Its researchers are experimenting with chemicals that plants can absorb without harm, but kill some insects which feed on plants.

Similar toxic chemicals may someday be used to inoculate cattle, to kill blood-sucking insects. The wonders of atomic science are serving for direct and indirect experiments.

Direct methods have included birth control of insects by gamma radiations. Male screw-worm flies have been sterilized with these radiations. When released, they caused females to lay sterile eggs.

INDIRECTLY, radioactive phosphorus has been used to tag insects, to permit checks on how fast and far insects can crawl or fly during migration.

Oddly enough, the common housefly which never found any defense against the swatter, has succeeded in striking back against a more scientific weapon, DDT. Ten years ago, DDT was expected to wipe out the nation's fly population. It didn't. Flies which survive today either had a natural resistance to this chemical, or developed such a resistance through body changes.

The Agriculture department estimates that enough bread to supply the nation for nearly two months of each year never gets baked, because of wheat that's destroyed by bugs in storage.

However, you can realize why entomologists are proud of their profession when you realize how the mosquito has been disarmed. The yellow fever it carried killed 13,000 persons in the Mississippi valley in 1873. Yellow fever hasn't been reported in the United States since 1905.

St. Lawrence power project will get under way early this summer. Engineers estimate that within four or five years, the St. Lawrence will be harnessed to produce 12 billion kilowatt-hours of hydro power annually, more than the output of either the Hoover or Grand Coulee dams. The energy will be divided equally between the Hydroelectric Power Commission of Ontario and the New York Power Authority.

John E. Burton, a member of the authority, says the St. Lawrence plants will make possible a cut of 60 million dollars a year in the bills of electricity users of the state, because of low production costs. An integrated power pool will send part of the electricity into the New England states, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

It is estimated that completion of both the St. Lawrence and the Niagara River projects would mean total savings of about 100 million dollars annually for New York electric consumers.

The Niagara development would be the largest single power source in the country, producing almost eight billion kilowatt-hours of energy a year, all for use on this side of the border.

The 400-million dollar Niagara program has been held up by failure of Congress to decide whether the State of New York or a group of private utilities should develop a huge hydroelectric project at Niagara Falls, 200 miles southwest of the St. Lawrence construction.

Upon completion, the two power programs will have the effect of an economic shot in the arm for the Northeast United States by reducing the differential between the cost of electricity in the region and other parts of the country.

Try This Bet: Yanks To Win By Single Run

History Against Chisox Show Bombers Using At Least Two Pitchers

By The Associated Press
If you feel the urge to make a friendly wager on tonight's big clash between the Chicago White Sox and the New York Yankees, you might consider backing the Yanks to win by one run while using at least two pitchers.

The two teams have met four times so far. New York has won three of the four, always with two or more pitchers. And every one of the games has been decided by a single run.

The white-hot White Sox come into Yankee Stadium for a four-game series leading the American League by a game and a half. They've won 16 of their last 19, seven of them in a row.

But a lot of visiting winning streaks have become mere memories in Yankee Stadium.

The last time Paul Richards' hustlers lost two in a row to the same team was the last Yankee series in Chicago when the White Sox led after seven innings in each game only to get beaten 4-3 and 3-2.

The White Sox had a day of rest yesterday as rain washed out their scheduled game at Philadelphia. The Yanks took batting practice against Detroit, beating the Tigers 9-5 on home runs by Yogi Berra, Bobby Brown and Mickey Mantle.

Cleveland fell a game and a half behind Chicago by losing to Washington 8-4. Baltimore took a pair from Boston 5-1 and 9-0.

The New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers continued to share first place in the National League. The Giants edged Milwaukee 1-0 on Bill Taylor's 10th-inning pinch-hit homer. The Dodgers beat St. Louis 7-4. Philadelphia defeated Chicago 6-0 and Fred Baczewski of Cincinnati pitched his second straight shutout, 6-0 over Pittsburgh.

Ruben Gomez, who says he will be much happier when really hot weather finally arrives, pitched his third shutout as Giant pitchers stretched Milwaukee's string of scoreless innings to 25.

The Giants never threatened until Taylor's home run. They had only four hits off Gene Conley and hadn't moved a man past second. A brilliant throw by Willie Mays caught Henry Aaron trying to score for the Braves after a fly ball in the seventh.

The Dodgers broke a two-game slump with a 13-hit attack on Vic Raschi and Stu Miller. The loss was Raschi's second straight after winning his first five in the National League.

Steve Ridzik and Jim Konstanty combined for the Philadelphia shut out over the Cubs. Ridzik left with the bases loaded in the fifth and Konstanty finished up for his second victory.

The Pirates got to Baczewski for 11 hits but they were all singles.

CHS Spring Baseball Statistics Released By Coach Dick Boyd

Coach Dick Boyd of Circleville High School's baseball nine has released final spring statistics on his team. Sorry to say but they are far from encouraging.

For example, no one hit anywhere near .300. First sacker Tom Strawer was high with .286. He also lead in RBI's with 9. No Tiger was able to come up with a round tripper.

Don Skinner, senior pitcher, proved to be a fair hitter. He got three triples, tops for the team.

Catcher Ralph Jones got three twobaggers while Ron Bennington and Joe Hill had two each.

Bob Wellington took the strikeout prize by whiffing 16 times. Bennington was top base stealer for the Tigers with 8.

CHS HAD an average of seven runs scored against them while they were able to come up with 3.7. They were also outhit 8.1 to 5.1. The Tigers also struck out an average of 8.2 times a game.

Bill Barthelmas made the most miscues in the field. The third baseman bobbled 14 times. The team committed an average of 3.53 per game which may account for their 4 win, 11 lost record.

Skinner had a record of 2-6. He pitched 43 innings, struck out 36 and gave up 48 hits. He issued 25 walks.

Jim McConnell earned a 1-4 mark in 34 innings. He walked 27, struck out 26 and was knocked for 41 hits. Walt Sievert pitched 21 innings, gave up a like number of hits, fanned 13 and walked 12. He ended with an even record of 1-1.

Joe Hill, who played right field mostly, had no record in 6 innings of hurling. He was touched for a dozen hits, fanned three and walked five.

The Michigan horse captured the Grand Circuit event in 2:09.3. Knight Stick was going away after taking Lilliali in the stretch.

Lilliali finished second. Irish Cander was third.

The Cincinnati attack included Gus Bell's third homer in two days and Jim Greengrass' second.

Washington jumped on Bob Lemmon of Cleveland for five runs in the third inning, three of them coming after George Strickland threw wild on a potential double-play ball. Dean Stone, a rookie, won his fourth straight for the Senators.

Boston's hopes of climbing out of second division received a double setback from Joe Coleman and Duane Pillette of the Orioles. Coleman spaced seven hits in winning his seventh game in the opener. Pillette allowed only five in the nightcap shutout.

Two Rules Added To Park Baseball

A couple of rules have been added to those governing the Little League and Pony League this season, according to Dick Boyd. These rules govern pitchers and weren't necessary last season since each team played only once a week. This year, however, a bigger schedule of teams means play twice in a week many times.

The rules are these:

(1) In the Little League, a pitcher may pitch only six innings in a week (Monday to Saturday) unless he is pitching when a tie results at the end of six innings, in which case he may pitch a maximum of nine innings.

(2) In the Pony League, a pitcher may pitch only nine innings in a week (Monday to Saturday) unless he is pitching when a tie results at the end of six innings, in which case he may pitch a maximum of 12 innings.

Belmont Expects Big Size Field

NEW YORK (AP)—The entry box for the 86th running of the $100,000-added Belmont Stakes opens today and it's possible the largest field in 77 years will be named for the last of the triple crown classics for 3-year-olds.

King Ranch's High Gun, winner of last Saturday's Peter Pan, may start as the favorite, but the post-time condition of two other colts could have a big effect in the race.

The Llangollen Farm's Porterville and Robert S. Lytle's Correlation have been nursing aches but seem to be recuperating.

Redlegs Back Playing .500 Baseball Again

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs are back at the .500 mark in the National League standings and they have to give a lot of the credit to control pitching.

A 6-0 victory yesterday over the Pittsburgh Pirates, the fourth in a row for the Reds, included only one walk by Fred Baczewski. That was only the third walk given up by five Redleg pitchers in the last five games.

And any baseball manager will tell you that one of the best ways for a pitcher to stay out of trouble is refrain from giving out those free tickets to first base.

In the course of the last five contests Baczewski has gone 18 innings and allowed only one walk.

Joe Nuxhall went nine without giving a pass. Corky Valentine gave one walk in nine innings. Art Fowler gave one in seven innings and Frank Smith didn't give a free ticket in two frames.

Baczewski got behind a lot of the hitters yesterday but he always seemed to have enough stuff.

The inept Pirates again were helpful to the Cincinnati cause. Three errors helped the Rhinelanderers along.

The Reds also made good use of the home run ball. Gus Bell, with a two-for-three day, hit his third homer in two games in the seventh. Prior to that, Jim Greengrass, who had a two-for-four performance as he proceeded along the hitting comeback trail, knocked one out of the park in the sixth.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P)—Newport Girl, 5-year-old daughter of Axomite owned by Allen Scott of Cadiz, won both dashes of the featured seventh race—the 22 class trot—at Hilliards Raceway last night.

One of New Zealand's leading harness race drivers, John Shaw, is visiting the United States and will drive Our Volo in the third race tonight, the CC trot. Results Thursday:

First—Class C Trot, classified, 5/8 mile, $400: Josedale Meteor, C. Baker, 35.20, 13.20, 5.80; Bob Speigwood, L. Applegate, 8.20, 4.00; Comaid, D. Spence, 3.20. Time: 1:21.8.

Second—24 Class Pace, 1 mile, $400: Doon Prince, Ron Cornwell, 11.40, 4.80, 4.60; Willie's Dream, F. Trees, 4.00, 3.60; Miss April

Juvenile Pace Won In 2:09.3

DETROIT (P)—Knight Stick, owned by Mrs. Al Eastin, of Wayne, Mich., won the $5,000 Juvenile Pace for 2-year-olds last night at the Hazel Park Raceway.

The Michigan horse captured the Grand Circuit event in 2:09.3. Knight Stick won going away after taking Lilliali in the stretch.

Lilliali finished second. Irish Cander was third.

The Cincinnati attack included Gus Bell's third homer in two days and Jim Greengrass' second.

Washington jumped on Bob Lemon of Cleveland for five runs in the third inning, three of them coming after George Strickland threw wild on a potential double play ball. Dean Stone, a rookie, won his fourth straight for the Senators.

Boston's hopes of climbing out of second division received a double setback from Joe Coleman and Duane Pillette of the Orioles. Coleman spaced seven hits in winning his seventh game in the opener. Pillette allowed only five in the nightcap shutout.

Two Rules Added To Park Baseball

A couple of rules have been added to those governing the Little League and Pony League this season, according to Dick Boyd. These rules govern pitchers and weren't necessary last season since each team played only once a week. This year, however, a bigger schedule of teams means play twice in a week many times.

The rules are these:

(1) In the Little League, a pitcher may pitch only six innings in a week (Monday to Saturday) unless he is pitching when the tie results at the end of six innings, in which case he may pitch a maximum of nine innings.

(2) In the Pony League, a pitcher may pitch only nine innings in a week (Monday to Saturday) unless he is pitching when the tie results at the end of six innings, in which case he may pitch a maximum of 12 innings.

Belmont Expects Big Size Field

NEW YORK (P)—The entry box for the 86th running of the $100,000-added Belmont Stakes opens today and it's possible the largest field in 77 years will be named for the last of the triple crown classics for 3-year-olds.

King Ranch's High Gun, winner of last Saturday's Peter Pan, may start as the favorite, but the post-time condition of two other colts could have a big effect in the race.

The Llangollen Farm's Porterhouse and Robert S. Lytle's Correlation have been nursing aches but seem to be recuperating.

Redlegs Back Playing .500 Baseball Again

CINCINNATI (P)—The Cincinnati Redlegs are back at the .500 mark in the National League standings and they have to give a lot of the credit to control pitching.

A 6-0 victory yesterday over the Pittsburgh Pirates, the fourth in a row for the Reds, included only one walk by Fred Baczewski. That was only the third walk given up by five Redleg pitchers in the last five games.

And any baseball manager will tell you that one of the best ways for a pitcher to stay out of trouble is refrain from giving out those free tickets to first base.

In the course of the last five contests Baczewski has gone 18 innings and allowed only one walk. Joe Nuxhall went nine without giving a pass. Corky Valentine gave one walk in nine innings. Art Fowler gave one in seven innings and Frank Smith didn't give a free ticket in two frames.

Baczewski got behind a lot of the hitters yesterday but he always seemed to have enough stuff.

The inept Pirates again were helpful to the Cincinnati cause. Three errors helped the Rhinelander along.

The Reds also made good use of the home run ball. Gus Bell, with a two-for-three day, hit his third homer in two games in the seventh. Prior to that, Jim Greengrass, who had a two-for-four performance as he proceeded along the hitting comeback trail, knocked one out of the park in the sixth.

Temporary Wheat Loan Plan Will Ease Storage Problems

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office, located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here, headed by County Agent Larry Best, is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Wheat price support loans for a temporary period will be made where permanent storage facilities are not available, according to Lowell Folsom, Ohio State University grain marketing specialist.

Reports from some wheat states indicate a shortage of storage space that will keep farmers from putting their wheat under loan. That may force them to market wheat prematurely with resulting low prices. Temporary loans will permit these farmers to market their wheat in an orderly manner, Folsom said.

Temporary loans will be for 90 days at 80 percent of the regular loan value. They will be limited to counties designated by state ASC (formerly PMA) committees.

The 90-day period is to give producers time to provide adequate farm or commercial storage for their wheat.

ASC committees in counties eligible for the temporary loans will announce the type facilities that will qualify for temporary storage.

Walter C. Rase of Circleville has been accepted as a member of The Holstein-Friesian Association of America by action of the Board of Directors at their recent meeting in Grand Rapids, Mich.

The association is the world's largest dairy cattle breeders' registry organization, with approximately 45,000 members throughout the nation.

More than 200 weeds common to the North Central States are described and illustrated in a new weed bulletin now on Ohio county agents' shelves. Dr. C. J. Willard represented Ohio State University on the editorial committee that planned and published the bulletin.

Farmers and others interested in learning about different weeds may purchase the bulletin at their county extension office. It's entitled

"Weeds of the North Central States."

Ohio fertilizer sales have more than doubled in the last 10 years Earl Jones, Ohio State University extension agronomist announced. He said Ohio farmers bought more than a million tons of fertilizers last year.

Jones said fertilizer prices have increased less than most other items farmers buy. Increasing fertilizer applications still will increase efficiency on most farms and reduce the cost per bushel or per ton of crop harvested. That's one way of maintaining profits during the current cost-price squeeze, he added.

June is field day month for Ohio's $130 million poultry industry. Emil Malinovsky, Ohio State University extension poultryman said.

Field days scheduled include: Poultry Day at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster, June 23, and the Deshler Poultry Festival, June 24.

Last year about 4,000 attended chicken barbecues at the Versailles Poultry Day and the Deshler Poultry Festival. Malinovsky said more than 4,000 are expected this year.

Indiana poultrymen will join Ohio poultrymen at Versailles to learn about turkey marketing and general poultry production problems.

Meigs county poultrymen will hear new practices in broiler production at their field day. They sell two million broilers a year.

Poultrymen attending Poultry Day at Wooster will see poultry research now in progress at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station. At Deshler, the district chicken-of-tomorrow contest will be a program highlight.

Fertilized pastures produced $25 more beef per acre last year than unfertilized pastures, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in citing tests by Minnesota soils specialists.

Beef production on the fertilized pastures was worth $47.16 per acre, compared to $22.33 on the untreated fields according to the Minnesota agronomists.

Steers gained an average of 2.25 pounds apiece daily on the pastures treated with 500 pounds per acre of 5-20-20 fertilizer. Daily weight gains averaged only

1.81 pounds per steer on the check plots.

The pasture mixture was alfalfa, red clover, bromegrass and timothy.

Total weight gains in a 120-day test were 270 pounds per steer on the fertilized fields, as against 172.2 on untreated pastures.

The soil building program increased the pasture's cattle carrying capacity by 70 per cent and boosted gross returns by 111 per cent, the Minnesota soils men estimate.

June is field day month for Ohio's $130 million poultry industry. Emil Malinovsky, Ohio State University extension poultryman said.

Field days scheduled include: Poultry Day at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster, June 23, and the Deshler Poultry Festival, June 24.

Last year about 4,000 attended chicken barbecues at the Versailles Poultry Day and the Deshler Poultry Festival. Malinovsky said more than 4,000 are expected this year.

Indiana poultrymen will join Ohio poultrymen at Versailles to learn about turkey marketing and general poultry production problems.

Meigs county poultrymen will hear new practices in broiler production at their field day. They sell two million broilers a year.

Poultrymen attending Poultry Day at Wooster will see poultry research now in progress at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station. At Deshler, the district chicken-of-tomorrow contest will be a program highlight.

Fertilized pastures produced $25 more beef per acre last year than unfertilized pastures, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in citing tests by Minnesota soils specialists.

Beef production on the fertilized pastures was worth $47.16 per acre, compared to $22.33 on the untreated fields according to the Minnesota agronomists.

Steers gained an average of 2.25 pounds apiece daily on the pastures treated with 500 pounds per acre of 5-20-20 fertilizer. Daily weight gains averaged only

Britain Urged To Hire Oppie

LONDON (AP) — The Conservative Daily Mail urged Britain today to find a job for Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, suspended adviser to the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. "Should we waste men like Oppenheimer?" was the headline on the article by William Hardcastle. His conclusion: "The Western Allies can't afford to."

U. S. investigators recently held Oppenheimer was a "loyal citizen" but a security risk and said he should not be reinstated in his post. His case now awaits final action by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

ROUNDUP

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office, located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here, headed by County Agent Larry Best, is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Ohio fertilizer sales have more than doubled in the last 10 years. Earl Jones, Ohio State University extension agronomist announced. He said Ohio farmers bought more than a million tons of fertilizers last year.

Jones said fertilizer prices have increased less than most other items farmers buy. Increasing fertilizer applications still will increase efficiency on most farms and reduce the cost per bushel or per ton of crop harvested. That's one way of maintaining profits during the current cost-price squeeze, he added.

Reports from some wheat states indicate a shortage of storage space that will keep farmers from putting their wheat under loan. That may force them to market wheat prematurely with resulting low prices. Temporary loans will permit these farmers to market their wheat in an orderly manner, Folsom said.

Temporary loans will be for 90 days at 80 percent of the regular loan value. They will be limited to counties designated by state ASC (formerly PMA) committees. The 90-day period is to give producers time to provide adequate farm or commercial storage for their wheat.

ASC committees in counties eligible for the temporary loans will announce the type facilities that will qualify for temporary storage.

Walter C. Rase of Circleville has been accepted as a member of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America by action of the Board of Directors at their recent meeting in Grand Rapids, Mich.

The association is the world's largest dairy cattle breeders' registry organization, with approximately 45,000 members throughout the nation.

More than 200 weeds common to the North Central States are described and illustrated in a new weed bulletin now on Ohio county agents' shelves. Dr. C. J. Willard represented Ohio State University or the editorial committee that planned and published the bulletin.

Farmers and others interested in learning about different weeds may purchase the bulletin at their county extension office. It's entitled

1.81 pounds per steer on the check plots.

The pasture mixture was alfalfa, red clover, bromegrass and timothy.

Total weight gains in a 120-day test were 270 pounds per steer on the fertilized fields, as against 217.2 on untreated pastures.

The soil building program increased the pasture's cattle carrying capacity by 70 per cent and boosted gross returns by 111 per cent, the Minnesota soils men estimate.
